LIMIT ADOPTED ON TONNAGE OF AIRCRAFT SHIPS

Naval Committee Decides on Substantial Increase Over Original Plan

ACTION DELAYED

Root's Proposals Held up—French Delegates Repudiate Paris Expert's Article on Submarines

Washington, Dec. 31.—Agreement was reached in the naval committee today upon tonnage and maximum armament of aircraft carriers, with a substantial increase over the proposed tonnage, but no action was taken on the Root resolutions to debar submarines from attacking merchantmen and to treat violations as piracy, nor upon the proposal to limit to 10,000 tons all ships other than capital ships and aircraft carriers.

These matters remain open pending instructions as to the submarine rules from the governments of France, Italy and Japan and as to the maximum tonnage of auxiliary ships from France. Until the instructions are received no further meeting of the naval committee will be held, although the technical experts will work on the replacement chart and various more or less technical odds and ends and the legal advisers will prepare the naval treaty.

In the morning session of the naval committee the French not only denied approval of but formally repudiated an article written by a French naval officer approving German use of submarines. It had been brought up by Lord Lee. Following his comment on it, M. Sarraut heatedly protested against criticisms of the French policy here as being aggressive and militaristic. He also paid his respects to those who have suggested that France now her debts before building. The debts, he said, are to France as scars to a wounded soldier, and she is proud of them.

The end of the naval section of the conference being imminent, attention is shifting to Far Eastern questions, and there is every sign of an early and general crisis. The Japanese say they have gone as far as they will go regarding Shantung and that they will not agree to consideration of the treaties based on the 21 demands. Manchuria is outside the conference, they state specifically. Their attitude as to Eastern questions still open broadly speaking, is that other nations are not to be allowed to review and pass upon their acts.

The Chinese, frankly admitting tonight through one of their delegates that they are disappointed over the treatment of Chinese matters in the conference, and stating equally frankly that they believe the important problems "could have been solved without this delay," are preparing to call on Mr. Hughes and Mr. Balfour to use their good offices for a satisfactory settlement of Shantung, and, take up the question. They also intend to force the issue as to the treaties arising from the 21 demands.

They admit they are being bombarded from China and forecast serious reactions at home unless the conference makes satisfactory settlement of such matters as Shantung, the 21 demands, treaties and the customs question. The Chinese say plainly that the boycott movement inaugurated yesterday against Japanese goods may become very important, although they carefully refrain from flat predictions.

The agreement reached in the naval committee on airship carriers is that the five naval nations shall have the following tonnage:

The United States, 135,000.
Great Britain, 135,000.
Japan 81,000.
France, 60,000.
Italy, 60,000.

This establishes an approximate ratio of 5-5-3-2-2. It will give the United States and England five carriers each of 27,000 tons, and Japan three of the same tonnage.

That tonnage per ship was named as the maximum. France will have three carriers of 20,000 tons each. Italy may have the same or two carriers of 27,000 tons each. All of these ships will be restricted to guns not heavier than the eight-inch.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Dec. 31.—Senator Reed, of Missouri, one of the Irreconciliables in the Senate, was talking to one of his colleagues today about the conference on the Limitation of Armaments.

"I made a fight to have open sessions of the conference," declared the Missouri Senator, "because I thought the people of the country were entitled to know what was going on. Now I am in favor of open sessions because I think the President of the United States is entitled to information on the deliberations of the conference."

Senator Reed had reference to the difference in views between the President and members of the American delegation to the Conference regarding the position of Japan in the four-Power pact.

It is expected in conference circles that there will be a meeting of the committee on Pacific and Far Eastern questions next Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning and that the sub committee of the Chinese tariff will report to it the compromise agreement to raise the customs duty of China to an effective five per cent with rcommendations for an eventual increase to seven and one-half per cent and ultimatey to twelve and a half per cent, after China shall have abolished the likin, or internal tariff, which feeds the treasuries of the provinces and which is administered entirely by Chinese.

It is learned that there is very great opposition in China to the abolition of the likin, especially at the present time when the national government is loosely administered. Another argument employed against the abolition of the likin is that it enables the Chinese partly to regulate their own revenues, the customs tariff being regulated and administered by foreigners.

"Conversations" between Senator Borah of Idaho, leader of the Senate "Irreconciliables" and Joseph P. Tumulty, former Secretary to Woodrow Wilson, were resumed last night. They had a long talk in the afternoon at Borah's office and a flood of speculation about a possible fight against the four-Power treaty by Woodrow Wilson followed. Later in the evening Borah and Tumulty got in touch again over the telephone and the conversation ran something like this:

Borah—I just called to say I had found that letter. My secretary had it in the files but was unable to find it when you were here this after-

INDOOR MEET AT ARMORY

Arlington-Fairfax Athletes Winners at Sunday School Meet

The Alexandria basketball team defeated the Arlington-Fairfax team at the Inter-Council Sunday School indoor athletic meet at the Armory yesterday afternoon, but the Arlington-Fairfax athletes easily took the meet. Alexandria only had two representatives in the meet, Misses Lynda Carver and Laura May Peverill of the M. E. Church, South.

The two counties, however, were well represented and the young people put up a splendid meet. The Creegan brothers, of the Alexandria Light Infantry, were the finish judges and Secretary Wallace, of the Y. M. C. A., was starter.

The running high jump for boys was taken by Kirklan Besley, of Fairfax, at 4:9, Sherman, of the same county was second and Edward Mechling, of Clarendon, was third. The third place was decided by lot, a tie resulting between Mechling and G. L. DeMott, of Arlington.

Sherman took the 30 yard dash easily from a large field that required trials and semi-finals; Besley was second and Linden Deuterman, third. Standing broad jump was taken by Deuterman at 8:6 1-2; Sherman second and Beseley third. The potato race was an exciting event and went to Besley, Sherman seceond, and Lawrence Manning, of Clarendon, third.

In the girls events some competition was evident in practically every number. The 30 yard dash went to Miss Emma Mutersbough, of Chesterbrook Church. Miss Mutersbough has been the outstanding girl athlete in the Sunday school meets for some time and her appearance always assures some interesting competition if any of the young ladies are to defeat her. Miss Grace Sherman, of Vienna, was second, and Miss Lynda Carver of Alexeandria, third.

The running high jump was taken by Miss Mutersbough at 4:3, Miss Sherman was second, and Miss Helen Besley, third. The potato race was also taken by Miss Mutersbough, Miss Besley second, and Miss Sherman, third. In the standing broad jump Miss Mutersbough was first at 6:10, Miss Carver and Miss Besley tied for second at 6:4 1-2. Miss Thelma Comley was third.

The basketball game developed some spectacular and some rather

GOOD-BYE 1921

Alexandria tonight will toll the death knell of 1921 and give a big welcome to 1922. Five minutes before the midnight hour the city hall and fire engine bells will toll the passing of 1921 and on the stroke of midnight there will be a chorus of bells and whistes let loose to welcome the birth of Miss 1922.

Many parties and dances have been planned and in addition there will be watch night services in a number of the churches where the New Year will be ushered in with prayer. It is expected that the usual number of celebrators will be on the streets and horns, bells and noise making devices of all kinds will be put into operation.

Members of the Relief Truck company will hold a banquet at the company's house tonight.

Practically all business here will be suspended Monday in observance of New Year's.

Christmas at Home for the Aged

The board of governors of the Anne Lee Memorial Home of the Aged wish to thank the friends who helped them make such a happy Christmas for those in the home. A beautiful dinner was served consisting of everything from Turkey to mince pie and fruit all the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hammond.

The members of the Eastern Star brought splendid baskets filled with fruits, nuts, candy, etc, to each member of the home. The Watson Memorial Philathae class, of the First Baptist Church brought knit stockings filled with all good things of the season. From the Elk's, through Dr. J. J. Garvey, a box of oranges. From Mrs. H. P. Wilson, Hollin Hall, a hamper of oranges, grapefruit and apples.

Fruit is always most thankfully received, as we depend so much on it for health.

A check for $25, sent by a friend to be added to the endowment fund, and a check from M. B. Harlow, $12 a year's subscription to the home, a five pound cake from the Corby Baking company.

The board of governors are making every effort and are trying hard, not only to make a happy home and give every comfort to those in the home, but to raise an endowment fund, the interest of which will pay the running expenses, and in time make the home self-supporting and we trust in 1922 to have many contributors to this fund.

VIRGINIA NEWS PARAGRAPHED

Bristol—Who will be the Democratic standard bearer in the Ninth Virginia District next fall? With the names of former Governor Henry C. Stuart, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Buchanan, George C. Peery and R. Tate Irvine before them members of the district committee gave consideration to this question today when they met in the Bristol, Va., courthouse to discuss the outlook. Former Governor Stuart had planned to attend the meeting, but because of illness was unable to leave his home at Elk Garden. He is expected to come here in a few days for a conference, however, and party leaders are hopeful that they will be able to induce him to accept the Democratic nomination to run against C. Bascom Slemp for Congress in the Ninth District next fall. Goverpor Stuart made the race against Slemp in 1910 and was beaten by only 217 votes.

Portsmouth — Firemen, chopping their way into a locked dwelling on the edge of the business section here last night to investigate a column of smoke rising from the roof of the building, were chased pell-mell from the house by darting flashes of electricity. Armed with rubber coats, hats and boots, they again ventured into the building, finding the chandeliers in electric sparks and the bathroom, equipped with enameled ironware, a veritable riot of electric energy. A section of one wall was knocked in and a stream turned on a blazing ceiling, quickly extinguishing it. The fire and electrical display was caused by grounding of electric light wires on the tin roof of the dwelling.

Richmond—Headquarters of the Virginia Historical Pageant Association is preparing copy for a ten-page illustrated pamphlet, outlining the plans and purposes of the Virginia Historical Pageant to be staged in Richmond the week of May 22, next year, These pamphlets will be of convenient size for the business houses of the city to include them in each letter or parcel of outgoing mail. This is one of the general advertising plans which will be carried out to scatter news of the pageant to every quarter of the globe.

Pulaski—Officers yesterday were investigating the death of Thomas R. Corder, deputy sheriff of Pulaski County, whose body was found yesterday afternoon in the creek bed at the foot of a cliff in Fox Creek section. BURGLARS ARE FRUSTRATED

Unexpected Appearance of Watchman Causes Men to Retreat

Efforts of burglars to rob the clothing store of W. T. Farley, 500 King street, at 10:40 o'clock last night were frustrated by William Travers, a special watchman, who looks after a certain number of stores on that thoroughfare. The burglars were frightened when Mr. Travers discovered them and ran away leaving behind about a dozen men's suits valued at $500 which they intended to carry away.

When Mr. Travers passed the store he went to try the door as is his usual custom. Seeing the glass panel of the front door broken he immediately went across the street for the purpose of telephoning J. Thomas Cook, manager of the store. Mr. Travers kept watching all the time. As he crossed he saw one man emerge from the store and two men standing behind the corner joined him and all three ran down Pitt street. Mr. Travers blew his police whistle and soon several members of the police force were on the scene and shortly afterward Mr. Cook arrived.

An inventory was taken today by Mr. Cook and it revealed that nothing was missing from the store.

A good description of the men has been furnished the police and their arrest is expected.

The front door of the store is several feet back from the sidewalk and the burglars made their entry by breaking the glass panel with a stone and the noise did not attract anyone in the neighborhood.

Prosperous Business Year Draws To Close

Progress Noted In All Lines of Endeavor During 1921—Several New Enterprises Started

FREE FROM BUSINESS REVERSES

Plans Being Made For Activities During The Coming Year—New Form of Government to Take Charge of City's Affairs Next September—General Review of Happenings of Interest During Year.

The year 1921, which within the next few hours will come to a close has been a successful on for the business interests of the city. The city has progressed along conservative lines and despite the fact that many cities throughout the country have suffered greatly from the effects of the general business depression Alexandria has practically felt no ill effects from conditions which during the latter part of the year have confronted many other cities far larger than Alxandria.

Merchants of the city, both whole sale and retail, report a good business throughout the year. Real estate men report a most successful year. Practically every house in the city at the present time is rented and there is still a demand for modern houses in the city.

Alexandria during the year has had several manfacturing plants to engage in business here, among them being the Trent Amalgam Co., at the plant of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation which industry is making good, not only selling its product locally but elsewhere.. This concern started operations here late this past summer and expects to greatly increase its business during the coming year.

A new pants factory also started operations here and the Klots Silk Throwing Company which resumed operations with an increased force last July. Other small manufacturing plants also have started operations during the year.

City Council during the year passed an ordinance, authorizing a bond issue in the sum of $300,000. The bonds were sold to a Cincinnati firm for $99.25 showing the splendid financial standing of the city. Part of the money derived from the sale of these bonds was used for improvements at the city gas plant and the remainder went for street improvements.

As a result of the work done at the city gas plant, including the installation of a new holder the capacity of that plant early in August was doubled and there is now practically no complaints received regarding the gas furnished by the city and the committee on light feels proud of the achievement.

The plant of the Fruit Growers' Express, one of Alexandria's coming industries, has been enlarged and now about 400 men are given employment at this concern.

Alexandria city council has kept up with the procession wisely expending the funds at its disposal for street and sewers in various sections of the city. In addition they passed an ordinance providing for the compulsory repairing of all sidewalks in various parts of the city have been repaired, and early in the spring it proposed to renew the work in an energtic manner so that soon all had sidewalks in every part of the city will have been put in first class shape. This has been a big help. The greater part of the cost is borne by the property owners and a part by the city.

Another factory which during the year resumed operations was the Old Dominion Glass Company which was reorganized and which concern gives employment to a large number of hands.

Two miles of the highway between here and Washington during the month of June were opened for traffic, giving a splendid roadway over the old Alexandria-Washington turn pike to Washington.

This roadway cost $40,000 a mile, and has been most helpful to the merhants of the city and others desiring a short route between the two cities resulting in much time saving.

L. Stockhouser Inc., of Baltimore, during the early spring acquired the plant formerly occupied by the General Shipbuilding Company on the river front and if reports are true this concern during the year may start the operation of a fertilizer plant on this site.

During the past month plans were disussed for a campaign here to raise $75,000 for the construction of a Y. M. C. A., building. The plans it is expected will mature during the coming year and the campaign begun in earnest

Alexandria looks forward to the New Year with considerable satisfaction.

A large number of things are proposed for the New Year and if present plans carry the projects proposed will be realized.

The city is looking forward to the erection of the proposed million dollar temple on George Washington Park by the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association and that association February 22 will meet here and definite plans for the proposd permanent memorial will be submitted. During the year the city council disposed of its holdings in this park to the Memorial Association as a site for the proposed temple.

A ferry between this city and the Maryland side of the river known as Fox's ferry also is proposed. The merhants during 1922 will make strenuous efforts to have for King street a modern white way and if the plans mapped out carry many of the objectional looking poles that now adorn King street will be removed from that thorouoghfare.

Another important matter which was discussed in Alexandria only a few days ago is the building of a modern roadway between Alexandria and Fairfax Courthouse, a distance of fourteen miles. The proposed road way would cost in the neighborhood of $420,000 and it would be most helpful to the business interests of the city. Through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce the state highway commission came here and heard residents of Fairfax and a number of Alexandrians interested discuss the merits of its construction. There is every indication that the road will be built early during the coming spring.

Alexandria during the latter part of the year will have a new form of government. The plan provides that the new form go into operation September 1. It will consist of five councilmen and will be known as the council manager plan form. They will name a business manager. The councilmen will not, however, be elected till next June. An election for the new plan carried by an overwhelming majority. Citizens also look forward to even greater things after the new council gets into action.

One of the big things planned for Alexandria for the coming year is the erection of a handsome school building on the lot of the Alexandria High School which will it is estimated cost about $90,000 and which will contain at least, sixteen class rooms. This matter already is in the hands of the city council. The schools at present are overcrowded. Practically 3,000 pupils are now attending the public schools of the city which is a larger attendance than in any previous year.

The various churches and fraternal organizations of the city during the past year have made rapid strides and all report success. The Knights of Columbus acquired by purchase the Master Mason's Club at the southeast corner of Cameron and St. Asaph streets. The state convention of the Knights of Pythias held here in October was a big success, delegates from every part of the state being in attendance. A big initiation was staged here by the Odd Fellows' Association of Northern Virginia. Special courses for women were launched by the Y. M. C. A., and that organzation also during the year formed a number of troops of Boy Pioneers under the direction of K. E. Wallace. The Kiwanis Club, one of Alexandria's new wide awake clubs, had made marked progress during the past year, and its weekly luncheons have been most successful a ladies' night celebration launched during the past few weeks being a pronounced success. Silver Moon Council, Daughters of Pocahontas was organized here with a large membership and the members of Russell Mitchell Post, Veteran' of Foreign Wars, received their charter during the year. Strides also were made by the American Legion of this city.

The Chamber of Commerce of the city has been energetically at work during the closing year, and this organization has accomplished wonderful progress. In addition its rooms have been open to the public for any purpose desired and many successful campaign have been launched at these rooms and many business matters of importance to the city had their inception at the headquarters of this organization of which the city may well feel proud.

Drives conducted in the city during the year which were a success included Salvation Army, Near East Relief, Irish Relief and Red Cross and number of others together with several successful tag days.

The schools of the city have made marked progress during the year. A supervisor of education, Miss Mary D. Pierce was appointed and is now serving. Salaries of all of the teachers were increased in a uniform manner by the city council. During education week special exercises were held at the schools and there

ALEXANDRIA TO FAIRFAX

The coming year augurs well for Alexandria. Several good things are in sight which promise fruition in 1922.

The first of the bountiful gifts that maybe expected will be the Fairfax Highway. As we said the other day, the State Highway Commission are friendly to the project and energetic citizens of Fairfax County and Alexandria are determined to see it through. One of the prettiest arguments put up to the Commission, at the hearing, was made by the worthy president of our Chamber of Commerce, W. A. Smoot. We quote his argument in full, which, as near as our reporter could get it, was as follows:

"The present road program for the state of Virginia contemplates the construction of many thousands of miles of improved highways at a cost of many millions of dollars and none of this money is available, under present plans, for expenditure in the corporate limits of a city.

There have been only two state highways proposed in the vicinity of this city, which are the Washington-Richmond highway (with the road from Washington to Alexandria and on to Camp Humphrey completed) and the road to Fairfax and on to the valley. The Richmond Washington route never did contemplate any new construction within a distance of about twelve miles of Alexandria, which makes the Alexandria to Fairfax highway the only new construction we can hope to secure from the entire program according to present plans.

"It certainly seems equitable for a city of over 20,000 people who will be taxed over a period of many years for the state highways to, at least, ask that one road be built from their city, in a program as extensive as the present one, when this road will be so essential to the city's welfare."

THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

The Senate Committee appointed to investigate the military administration by this Government of the Dominican Republic and Haiti has returned, and in due season its report will be made public. From such information as has come through the press we are inclined to believe that the committee has come to the right conclusion as to affairs in the two countries. The Haitian Republic is not to be put in the same category as the enlightened Dominican Republic. It is composed for the most part of an illiterate population but little superior to their African ancestry and utterly unfitted for self-government. The Dominicans, however, are among the most intelligent and cultured peoples of Latin-America. We are decidedly of the opinion that they are competent to take over the administration of their own affairs, and hope the Senate Committee will recommend steps towards this much desired consummation.

We are just in receipt of several copies of the Listin Diario, the able and patriotic daily newspaper published in Santo Domingo, and note with pleasure the full and impartial reports contained in its columns, as also its courteous treatment of the Commission from the United States Senate. The Dominican Republic is one of the richest countries in the world in natural resources. With these developed it would rank next to Cuba, far surpassing Porto Rico in its annual volume of trade. We have always advocated a reciprocal tariff between this country and Santo Domingo, as also the granting of other commercial privileges to which it is justly entitled. Our best wishes go out to the little Republic for a happy and prosperous New Year, which we trust will be augmented by wise and generous treatment on the part of its big brother, the United States.

Money and Markets

Conditions in the United States today indicate that the year 1922 as a whole will be more satisfactory to business than the year just ended. Our forecast is that profits will depend more on economy of operation than on expansion of volume. With the many favorable factors now operating, business men should not fear to make plans for the new year but they should plan with care and conservatism, and with constant effort toward reduction of costs.

Financial improvement continues. Progress has been made in reduction reduction of excess stocks of manufactured goods. Accumulations of raw materials have been reduced. The rate of production in the major industries has shown, little change during the closing weeks of the year. Losses in some line have been offset by gains in others, the net result being that the gains over the level of the earlier months of 1921 have been held.

The last twelve months have witnessed great progress toward stable financial conditions in business. Combined gold reserves have increased by more than 40 per cent while discounts for member banks have dropped 50 per cent, and Federal reserve notes in actual circulation have declined 28 per cent. The Federal reserve system once more proves to be a system designed to care for increases and decreases in the volume of credit, with the requisite elasticity to do this easly. The betterment in the position of member banks, while not so striking is nevertheless satisfactory.

Notwitstanding the consistent improvement in financial conditions, recovery in manufacture and trade has been slow. Unemployment in the chief countries shows little decline from the high point reached early in the year, and it may well reach new high figures during January and February, when normally there is an increase in the number of those out of work in North America and Europe. Manufactured goods continue to move slowly and uncertainly into the channels of consumption.

In last analysis, the business of the world rests on a physical, not a financial foundation. Failure of balance between world wide supply of and effective demand for physical goods forced the violnt readjustment goods forced the violent readjustment ment which will not be complete until this physical balance has again been established.

The wool situation illustrates particularly well the various factors which have prevented a return to normal conditions. It has continued to accumulate, partly because central Europe has not been able to purchase in the expected amounts partly because an important part of the wool supply is a by-product, and partly because the building up of flocks is so slow a process that flock masters reduce them only when they have given up hope of profits.

With curtailment of production and increased demand, copper stocks are showing reduction. The short American and Egyptian cotton crops have served to bring the world's cotton supply approximately to a prewar normal. Stocks of hides and skins are large in many countries but are moving more freely into consumption. The prices of rubber and sugar are still below th cost of production. Sisal stocks carried over from last year now constitute nearly two-thirds of a normal year's supply. The world's wheat production is in a satisfactory state of balance in that there is an adequate supply and a sustained demand The American farmer, in the face of a new corn crop of 3,152,000,000 bushels is carrying over 281,000,000 bushels from the record crop of 1920. There is also an accummulation in other less well known commodities.

This accumulation of physical goods is not a misfortune. It assures to the world a supply of cheap food and clothing, and real prosperity has never rested on any other basis. But producers of raw materials constitute much more than half of the buying power of the world, and the conclusion is inevitable that the entire economic structure will gradually adjust itself to the raw material market.

The essential step toward recovery is removal of the burden of expnditures for war. The countries which are wasting their money and effort on armaments are those whose markets must absorb the world's excess of raw materials and pay for it with manufactures.

The terrific burden of war debts and preparation for war is clearly shown by data recently prepared by the Federal Reserve Board. The Board states that in 1920, of a total net public expenditure by Great Britain of 1,145,928 000, 30.5 per cent. were for public debt charges and 25.5 per cent, were for national defense; by France, of a total of 53,183,217,000 francs 22.7 per cent, were for public debt charges, and 50.7 per cent, were for national defense. In 1919, Italy's total public expenditures were 32,150,100,000 lire, of which 8.4 per cent, were for public ddbt charges and 83.9 per cent. for national defense. German expenditures in 1920 were 61,470,370,000 marks, 14:5 per cent being for public debt charges, and 1.03 per cent for national defense.

Expenditures for the payment of interst and principal of the public debt do not curtail current purchasing power. They merely transfer it. That curtailment occurred when in the fist place the debts were incurred for military and naval purposes. But currnt expenditures for national defense constitute a direct ivy on the present purchasing powers of a people. Labor expended to make guns and submarins can not pay for hides from Argentina or wool from Australia.

It is too much to hope to destroy the anachronism of armament at one blow, but in so far as concrete results may be attained, they offer the first real hope of recovery from the economic stagnation of the world A combined saving by the United States the United Kingdom and Japan on armaments of only $500,000,000 in a single year is equivalent to the prewar value of the exports of wool from both Argentina and Australia for nearly three years.

Cut Out Guess Work By Picturing Facts

Chicago, Dec. 29.—"Before the wise merchant of today selects the site for his retail store he studies a chart on which is visualized the neighborhood traffic, even to the actual number of pedestrians on each sidewalk per hour. If his bookkeeper finds the profits growing smaller month by month, he makes a chart which enables him to point out to his employer the weak place in the business. Traveling salesmen present their more or less complicated propositions by means of diagrams as well as films," said Sumter Calvert, of the Society for Visual Education, in discussing with a group of visiting vocational instructors for rapidity with which motion pictures and graphic charts have sprung into prominence in business and industry.

Since the war the demand "Show me!" has become increasingly imperative, Mr. Calvert declared. If you want attenion paid to your proposition if you want to make your point before your listener wearies of the subject, you inevitably seize a pencil and place before him some marks of comparison. If you can show him an effective graph whose curves are based on facts—if you can present your proposition visualized—you have virtually "put it over."

"The facts charted by bookkeeper, manager or clerk—this is the demand of all big businss concerns," continued Mr. Calvert. "The graph is the outgrowth of present day complex business methods. Many of the bona-fide educational films, whether for industrial or classroom use, combine the chalk talk and graph with the motion picture. Both the conservative pedagogue and the alert business executive see the advantage of putting complicated data into picture form."

He quoted from a lecture recently given under the auspices of the Business Charting Institute of Chicago, by Walter Dill Scott President of Northwestern University, who said:

"Whenever we are puzzled by a confused mass of figures, whenever we want to get at the heart of a matter, we are glad to see a chart that gets down to fundamentals and explains our uncertainty. We all recognize that there is something about a chart that gives us a masterly over details. It seems to present a complex sitnation as a panorama; with each detail in its place and the relations and interrelations orderly and definite."

With an effective graph before him, the business executive quits guessing and works from facts. According to the Business Charting Institute, the graph plays a vital part in every kind of industry and in every department of business. For instance, the National Cash Register Company has demonstrated the value of the chart in the following ways: (1) picture of a sale; (2) ten elements of good salesmanship (3) diagrams of the meaning of such phrases as "service" and "courtesy" (4) explanatory diagrams regarding standard instructions in making out sales slip, etc.; (5) general inspirational diagrams; (6) charts showing how to sell individual articles.

"Facts! I want facts, facts!" declared Theodore N. Vail the man who looks after two-thirds of the entire world's telephone business.

"I don't want you to guess. I want you to knew!" was the reprimand administered by Judge Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation, to a secretary whose answer to his question was non-committal. And today charts are used freely to keep executives of this great industrial organization accuratly posted.

While business is steadily growing more complicated, methods of handling it are constantly being simplified and pictures, still, animated or in motion, now take the place of long winded arguments and figures which only experts can understand.

The Gazette's Book Shelf

By "The Woman About Town."

WASHINGTON CLOSE-UPS, by Edward G. Lowry. (Houghton, Mifflin and Company, Boston and New York.)

"If all men count with you but none too much." Certainly this line applies to Edward G. Lowry and, because his book is so full of clear insight and kindly wit and fair play, we are inclined to believe he measures up to a good many of the poem's other qualifications, too. Mr. Lowry can be an admirer but not a sycophant; a keen critic yet not an enemy. He has the gift of an understanding heart in regard to both his subject and audience; a realization of the value of apt anecdote; a complete knowledge of Kipling's "Collected Verse" and unerring sense of when and where to use it.

The chapter on Will H. Hays will catch the popular fancy; the chapter on Hughes is probably the best though there is not a really dull page in the book.

If the reviewer has written more about the author than about his work it is because unconsciously he has put so much of himself into his book. Quoting his own words about President Harding, "We believe Abou Ben Adhem would have taken to him like a shot."

THE MAN IN GRAY, by Thomas Dixon. (The Atherton Press, New York City.)

It is hard for a Southern-born man or woman to review a book in which Robert E. Lee is the dominant figure. The man himself is so much greater than any story which can be built around him that he either dwarfs the structure into insignificance, or raises the quality of the work by his own sheer beauty till we forget the book's shortcomings. No book could be utterly bad if Lee's smile flashed just once across the pages.

Thomas Dixon will always have a following, though personally we prefer having the great characters of the South portrayed by Miss Mary Johnson. There is an element of the fanatic in Mr. Dixon and the South is better off without partisanship. Let our authors presnt he heroes of the old South as lovingly as they will but leave the cause for which they fought to history.

Mr. Dixon presents John Brown of Harper's Ferry in a new light. It is a question whether it is better to hold to the old idea of him as just a beast or to accept Mr. Dixon's picture of a religious fanatic. While it raises him in the social scale, it increases his responsibility toward humanity and makes his crimes the blacker.

Prosperous Business Year Closes

was public speaking in the interest of the movement.

Two successful playgrounds during the year have furnished amusement for the children, one being the Friends' playgrounds on the north side of Queen between Washington and Columbus streets and the other the Salvation Army grounds at Wilkes and Lee streets. In addition a Sunday School Baseball League was organized during the year which proved a big success and attracted many fans to its games throughout the summer months.

Another club which promises to make considerable more headway during the year is the Old Dominion Boat Club. This club during the past year acquired by purchase the old ferry slip at the foot of King street. This club eventually will erect a modern boat club on the site and abandon its present clubhouse.

The Business and Professional Women's Club was organized here early in May and since its organization its membership has steadily gained and at its monthly meetings prominent speakers have addressed the club. A new fraternal order added to the list of organizations is the Royal Order of Red Deer.

Under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution exercises were held April 13 at Jones Point in observance of the 130th anniversary of the laying of the south boundary stone at that place.

A successful clean up and paint up week was launched during the summer under the auspices of the chamber of commerce and the health department and much good was accomplished.

During the present month R. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, turned their home on Prince street over to Mary Custis Lee, 17th Virginia Regiment Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Alexandria's institutions were remembered well during the year a total of $74,914 in gifts being left to the Alexandria Hospital, among the donors being P. McK. Baldwin, $59,414, Michael A. Ahern, $10,000 Miss Mary Custis Lee, $5,000; Miss Rebecca Powell $500.

The Alexandria merchants have made splendid progress during 1921. Many successful dollar days were held and one big campaign for the country trade was launched and similar campaigns are under way for the New Year. The retailers also at the chamber of commerce organized the Retail Credit Men's Bureau, St. Mary's Academy conducted by the Sisters of the Holy Cross, during the early part of the year purchased the farm from the estate of the late William F. Downey of Washington known as "Fairview" consisting of 250 acres on which eventually it is stated a select boarding school for young ladies will be erected.

The Royal Apartment House was built by Hugo Herfurth, Jr., and others on Royal street south of King street.

During the year the city was visited by three disastrous fires, two occurring the same night of September 10, one at the big warehouse of Virginia Shipbulding Corporation followed within an hour by a big blaze at the warehouse of the Mutual Ice Company. The loss at these two places totaled it was estimated $227,750. On October 25 the plant of the Belle Pre Glass Company was destroyed by fire entailing a loss estimated at about $50,000.

New Justice to Open Court Tuesday

are returned to the civil and police justice court by the Sergeant or constable who serves the warrant.

No judgment shall be taken by default of the appearance of the defendant, unless the plaintiff appear on the return day of the warrant, either in person or by attorney, and verify the account or claim under oath,or unless, if the claim be on open account, a verified statement of the account be served on the defendant, together with the warrant.

All costs must be paid in advance. The total cost for issuing a warrant will be $2.75, the issuing Justice to receive $1.00 of this amount, the Sergeant 50c, $1.00 for trial fee and 25c for filing fee. The last two fees totaling $1.25 in every case will be, at the end of each month, turned into the treasury of the city of Alexandria.

In contested cases where the parties are represented by counsel, it is thought advisable by the justice that argument of counsel be limited to fifteen minutes, except under extraordinary circumstances.

No continuance will be allowed except for good cause shown and no cases will be taken up and heard out of their regular order except under circumstances which may justify such a course.

No smoking will be permitted in the Court Room.

It is understood that quite a number of civil cases have already been instituted and the warrants made returnable to the new court and it is expected that Justice Duvall and his bailiff will be kept busy in the administration of their duties. A large percentage of the civil business in the city will find its way to this court and it is conservatively estimated that the court will handle from 1500 to 2,000 cases annually, outside of and excepting the Police Court cases.

Justice Duvall has been a resident of the City of Alexandria for the past few years and was elected to this office in the General Election held November 8th, 1921. He is a graduate of the law school of the University of Virginia and has been engaged in active practice of law for the past ten years.

Police Justice William S. Snow who held his final court today succeeded Justice Louis N. Duffey January 8, 1921, being appointed to that position by Judge Robinson Moncure. Justice Snow will continue as justice of the peace for the purpose of issuing civil warrants which will be tried before Justice Duvall and will continue to engage in the practice of law.

One of the fifth division (speeding homeward on the "Limited")—"What if this bridge should break and the train be dashed into the river?"

Conductor—"Don't worry lad, the railroad company has a lot more trains."—The Arklight.

rough play but was an interesting game throughout. Some college boys strengthened the Arlington-Fairfax combination while old stars helped to make the Alexandria aggregation a difficult one to cope with. The final score was 20-16 in favor of the Alexandria boys.

The conference closed with a banquet at the Chamber of Commerce in the evening, which was served by the cooking school under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. About sixty sat down to the delightful evidence of the proficiency to which the students of the class in cookery has evidently attained. Joel Deuterman, of Clarendon, was toast master and many responses were made to the toasts of the evening.

Secretary Wallace, of the Y. M. C. A. presented the winners of the afternoon with appropriate ribbons and some of them had their chests pretty well decorated with the trophies. A business meeting was held to discuss rountine matters of th young peoples' division of the Sunday schools and the happy party adjourned.

DOG VICTORIOUS

Canine Wins Fight To Live in Appeal In Corporation Court

The dog of W. M. Ramey, 1109 Duke street, came out victorious for fight for life in an appeal taken to the corporation court. The decision awarding the dog its right to continue to live today was handed down by Judge Moncure in the corporation court.

Some time ago in the police court the owner was ordered to either destroy the canine or take it out of the city. An appeal on behalf of the dog was taken to the corporation court by Attorney Frank Stuart on behalf of the owner and today Judge Moncure in deciding the dog can live held that the warrant in connection with the case was defective and not in accord with dog law.

Complaint against the dog was entered by Policeman Snellings who charged that the dog barked almost continually when he endeavored to sleep during the day after his night's work and the case first came to trial in the police court.

Tumulty—Thank you, Senator. I didn't want to trouble you but my client was anxious to find out about the letter."

It might be explained that the "conversations" related to a letter writtn by Borah to one of Mr. Tumulyt's law clients, a shipping firm in New York.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Oscar Suthard and family wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to their relatives friends and acquaintances both in the city and out of town, for their kindness, sympathy and beautiful floral tributes in our late bereavement. 310-1p.

The gloom that has pervaded conference circles since the French insisted on their 90,000 ton submarine allowance was dispeled today by developments which give promise of eventual agreement of the powers on the submarine and auxiliary issues as well as the capital ship ratios.

The first of these developments was the announcement that the Root resolutions outlawing submarine attacks on merchantmen would be adopted by the naval committee. The second was announcement in American circles that this government still has hopes of inviting all the naval powers of the world to a conference to ratify the decisions of the present conference on submarines. The third was the word which came from the French delegation telling of France's willingness to enter a world parley on submarines.

Nothing that has happened in Washington since the armament conference started has caused such a political ripple as the suggestion of a British-Italian alliance to meet the menace of French naval construction. The suggestion comes from Italian, not British sources, showing the real apprehension that now exists in regard to the naval ambitions of France. While of course such an alliance is far in the future and the chances are a hundred to one that it will never be consummated there is no question but that the mere suggestion has had a salutary effect upon the French.
